Knowledge Ontario – eResources – Closing Notes

Born with the creation of Knowledge Ontario in 2006, the provincial offering of eResources as an inclusive package for all Ontarians was a step toward digital equity.

Initially created with funding provided by the Province of Ontario, the eResources service continued as a shared service among the school boards, colleges, universities and special libraries, after government funding was removed.

With the closure of Knowledge Ontario, KO committed to exploring alternatives for those boards and institutions that were interested in continuing to work collaboratively. The existing KO eResources contracts ended effective December 31, 2012. Possible offers and contracts were made available to all the existing partners before the close of the year.

At this point any who did not respond before the December 31, 2012 closing date are now encouraged to contact the vendors directly.
